IN DRIVING RAIN

Rothschild's Colt Wins Great Stake---American Backers of Vanderbilt Horses Losing Heavily.

PARIS, June 27.-Baron Maurice de Rothschild's chestnut colt Verdun, with Barat up, to-day won the grand prix de Paris over the Longchamps course in a driving finish, with Mme. N. G.

in a driving finish, with Mme. N. G. Chocmeteff's Rebelle second, and Edmond Blanc's Union, third. The value of the stake was $474.155, and the distance of the race, one mile and seven furlongs.

The classic event was contested over a sodden track in a drenching rain in the presence of 280,000 persons, among whom were thousands of Americans, who had come here from England and sil parts of Europe to witness the race for the French blue ribbon.

W. K. Vanderbilt, who, with his bay coll Northeast, won the Grand Prix last year, was represented in the stake to-day by Negofol and Oversight, the favorites in the bettink, with Lord Mokelham's William IV., which finished third in the English Derby, heavily backed by the English contingent, as second choice, and Union, a popular French entry, third choice.

Eleven horses faced the starter, and when the flag fell William IV., closely stended by the Vanderbilt entries and Union broke in front and set a terrific pace.

He made the running to the head of Discount of the fronting to the head of the stretch, where Verdun and Rebello, the latter a rank outsider, came through, finishing in that order, with Union third, all out under the whip. Barst, the jockey who piloted Verdun to victory, was the first French rider to win the Grand Prix since the inauguration of Napoleon III. and shared in the ovation given to Baron De Rothschild, both being conducted to the presidential pavillon to receive the congratulations of President Falleres.

To-day's Grand Prix was the largest betting event in the history of the French turf, $380,500 being waged in the pari-mutuels. The Americans backed the Varderbilt herses to a man. Ross Adam's Christian won the Prix

Ross Adam's Christian won the Prix Castries.

While returning to the Elysees Palsoe, the President's carriage was surrounded by a large number of youthful royalists, who attempted a manifestation against him. The police finally rescued the manifestants, who were glad to escape from the angry citizens. Ten of them were placed under arrest.

NEW CAROLINA LEAGUE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 27.—The Western North Carolina League, which has now about narrowed down to Asheville, and Waynesville, closed yesterday afternoon after a game between these two teams to give way to the Carolina-Tennessee League, organized in Morristown, and composed of Asheville, Waynesville, Hendersonville, in North Carolina, and Knoxville and Morristown, in Tennessee. The season will open on July 3.

The organization of this league has been agitated for several months, but nothing definite was done about it. In the meantime, the North Carolina and Tennessee towns interested started-out separately, but with little success. Waynesville and Asheville have played several games since the organization in this State but these games have attracted little attention here, and, with one or two exceptions, have been witnessed by small crowds.

The season will necessarily be short, owing to the late date. A meeting will be held here on Monday to select a president and other officers and make final arrangements. Each team, according to the agreement reached at the end of the season, or if one or more teams drop out, to be divided pro rata among those remaining. WEEK'S EVENTS IN WORLD OF SPORTS

Another week finds Richmond's

Another week finds Richmond's former champions in the same relative position with Danville as they were as the constructive still lead in the race for the rag by half a game. The Colts gained one advantage during it week, and this, in that whereas last Monday, Roancke and Richmond were tied for second place, the locals are now nine points ahead of the Highlanders, Ports, and the race for championship honors. Nothing of a sensational character has happened our the general peace, the six clubs. Chandler and Shaughnessy fought in Norfolk, but the matter developed into a personal, rather than a professional affair. Catcher Relfel is conceded to be the property of owner Bradley, and threats of violence alleged against him are not considered by those who know conditions. Good crowds have attended the games in every city in the circuit during the week, and reports are that this season will be the biggest success, financially, since the league began, three seasons ago.

Locally, the release of Catcher Cowan is probably the most important happening. Cowan has always worked hard in the games at home, batted in good form. The team fielded poorly. Titme, in the cutfield, pulled off the worst plays of the series. He has the work are sore that he should have been turned off. Cowan was a great kicker, and in many instances defied the umpires. off days. Other members of the team played well, and with such work are apt to land on the top of the pile at the finish.

Lynchburs played disappointing bail, and Roanoke fell far behind its record of the past few weeks.— Danville is still playing in form. The Bugs are good hitters, and are credited with an unsually large number of errorless games. Pitcher Dickinson, of Lynchburg, who was farmedicut by Manager.

Lipe without a show, has apparently made good with the Hill Climbers.

With the Nationals.

New York's sories of saven straight victories was the greateat happening of last week in the National League, but it is feared the brace comes too late, as Pittsburg is now more than 150 points ahead, while Chicago has a lead of more than 75 points, New York was picked for the winner of the pennant by experts before the season opened. Chicago, in the same league, although not having fallen down, is well in the lead for the second position.

Sporting writers North, those who have the opportunity of seeing the many teams play, figure the Pittsburg nine as one of the greatest were organized. There is no use to throw flowers at Hans Wapner, who is in a class alone as far as superiority in baseball is concerned, but aside from this star, Barbeau, Abstoin and Miller are without equals in the National League spercentage column, and will likely remain so until the finals are played next fail. NEW LONDON, CONN., June 27.—The methods, the skill and the development of a rowing stroke of the great rowing coaches of two American universities—John Kenwedy, of Yale, and James Wray, of Harvard—will once again be in comparison on the Thames River July 1, when the Yale-Harvard regatta draws here its tens of thousands loyal and enthusiastic collegemen and their friends to make up the annual magnificent spectacle affoat and ashore.

Yale has sent a varsity eight to her training quarrers at Gales Ferry, of strong and well-drilled fellows, who row with the perfection of an oiled machine, and with all the grace of style that Kennedy so well knows how to turn out. The past week the craw has covered the four-mile course several times in figures, which it made in competition would practically break the records for the course.

The Harvard crew went to its train—the records for the course. The Harvard crew went to its training quarters a set of veterans. Yet with only a few days left for training, the upset in the Harvard hoat, necessitated the past week by the changing of Sargent at stroke for Roger Cwiler, has made the eight far from being one of seasoned earsmen. Three weeks ago six men in the shell had seen the bows of the Yale shell had seen the bows of the Yale shell had seen the bows of the Yale shell had seen the Columbia shell this in the races. Then came the unexpected defeat of this veteran crew by Cornell on Lake Ithaca on May 31, and only a few days ago these same earsmen saw Yale row over the Thames River in 20:55, the fastest time ever made upstream on the course. A clipped stroke in the Crimson beat at once brought the shake-up, and as the clipped stroke in the Crimson boat at once brought the shake-up, and as the last week of training breaks the outcome is more than ever in doubt.
